NBAA MEMBER BENEFITS

NBAA MEMBERSHIP

For 75 years, the business aviation community has looked to NBAA as its leader in enhancing safety and security, shaping public policy, providing world-renowned industry events and advancing the business aviation goals of more than 10,000 member companies worldwide.

As our association has grown through the years, so too have the needs of our diverse membership. Whether it's finding an answer to a technical operations question, needing a forum for networking with business aviation buyers or wanting to stay current on the latest industry news and regulations, NBAA provides something for everyone. From flight departments of all sizes, to suppliers and those looking to get into the industry, we work to represent the interests of the business aviation community at large, and provide the resources needed to help our member companies succeed.

Our comprehensive benefits and services provide you with the tools you need to learn about operational, technical and legislative issues, stay on top of regulatory requirements and changes, improve your management skills, network with peers, become involved with your local, national and international business aviation communities, make yourself heard by government of all levels, advance your career and help your business succeed - or in other words, do your job.

Here you'll find a highlight of some of NBAA's key member benefits, to help you see how NBAA can help your business soar - whatever your needs may be.

ACCESS TO INDUSTRY EXPERTS

DID YOU KNOW?

The team of industry experts in NBAA's Operations Service Group provides members with instant access to the latest information on rules and regulations, certifications and training requirements, equipment and service innovations, and other aspects of our dynamic and ever-changing industry.

With a single phone call or email, members have access to a designated staff person for prompt answers to questions on thousands of topics, including waiver requests, access protocols, customs regulations, technical questions, FAA regulations and more.

More Ways to Access Industry Experts

NBAA Committees. Made up of committed, talented and knowledgeable volunteers, NBAA's Standing Committees work together on behalf of the NBAA membership to promote business aviation safety and technical standards, access, professional development, operational excellence and security. NBAA's Technical Committee alone offers four subcommittees that obtain and evaluate data concerning aircraft, aircraft equipment, operations and maintenance problems relative to the business aircraft owner and pilot. They strive to bring about improvements in aircraft, equipment and operations, while maintaining flying safety at its highest level. NBAA members can contact the committee chair or staff liaison with questions.

SAFETY

» DID YOU KNOW?

Flying Safety Awards. NBAA and its member companies are committed to making business aviation as safe as possible. For nearly 70 years, the association has advanced and expanded business aviation's safety message through the Flying Safety Awards Program.

These awards have brought worldwide attention to the business aircraft safety record. They are awarded annually and recognize the safety records compiled by member company management, maintenance, pilot and support personnel teams. Apply by the deadline to gain recognition for your company's outstanding safety record.

nbaa.org/safetyawards

National Safety Forum. NBAA hosts the National Safety Forum to promote high standards of safety in business aviation operations. Held in conjunction with the NBAA Business Aviation Convention & Exhibition (NBAA-BACE), this annual event is a forum to collaboratively discuss and address the industry's top safety focus areas.

nbaa.org/safety-forum

Single-Pilot Safety Standdown. Also held in conjunction with NBAA-BACE, the Single-Pilot Safety Standdown focuses on safety for single pilots. This annual event features an entire day of safety programming for owner/operators and single pilots, including sessions on professional airmanship, single-pilot resource management, weather, aviation health and fatigue countermeasures; to help mitigate safety hazards in a way that is most appropriate for single-pilot business aviation operations.

nbaa.org/standdown

International Standard for Business Aircraft Operations (IS-BAO).

NBAA members save $500 on the International Standard for Business Aircraft Operations (IS-BAO) Manual, which includes a comprehensive toolkit to assist operators with implementation of a Safety Management System (SMS). The toolkit includes a scalable program of standards, recommended practices, implementation guidance, several generic company operations manuals (GCOM) and many other tools designed to help flight departments worldwide achieve a high level of safety and professionalism.

RESOURCES FOR FLIGHT DEPARTMENT OPERATIONS

» DID YOU KNOW?

Air Traffic Services

NBAA maintains one of only three non-FAA operations positions at the FAA Air Traffic Control System Command Center. NBAA Air Traffic Services (ATS) provides members with the tools and information they need to enhance trip planning and facilitate issue resolution. NBAA ATS staff members provide the voice for equitable representation of business aviation in the planning and execution of the daily strategic plan of operations for the National Airspace System, participating in real-time national airspace flow-control and decision-making, as well as long-term strategic planning for the aviation industry as part of a joint FAA/ Industry Collaborative Decision-Making Workgroup. NBAA ATS represents the interests of NBAA members as part of their dues, but additional ATS services are available to members on a subscription basis. nbaa.org/ats

The team at ATS also provides members with free Airspace/Airport Alerts. These email alerts are the single best source of information about upcoming temporary flight restrictions and other airspace issues that have a significant impact on NBAA member flight operations. nbaa.org/airspace/alerts

Additional Resources

- NBAA's Business Aviation Taxes Seminar and Tax, Regulatory & Risk Management Conference. These events provide participants with comprehensive information and a solid basis for understanding how the appropriate tax laws and regulations apply to business aviation operators, along with a broad overview of financial risk management and aviation insurance.
- Insurance Plans and Workers' Comp. All employees of member companies qualify for NBAA-endorsed term life insurance, and member pilots also qualify for disability loss-of-license insurance. Additionally, all flight department personnel can access workers' compensation insurance coverage at reduced rates. Participating companies even have the opportunity to earn a cash dividend through the program. Contact your existing broker to learn more. nbaa.org/workerscomp

BENEFITS FOR SMALL FLIGHT DEPARTMENTS, OWNERS-OPERATORS AND PILOTS

» DID YOU KNOW?

NBAA Has a Small Aircraft Exemption

Regulations permit operators of large and turbine-powered, multi-engine airplanes to receive reimbursement for transporting company officials, employees, property, or guests, as well as for providing demonstration flights. The same regulations permit the use of timesharing, interchange and joint ownership agreements. Small aircraft, however, have traditionally been excluded. But, with NBAA's Small Aircraft Exemption, operators of small aircraft are allowed to take advantage of the same flexibility the regulations extend to larger aircraft operators.

Since 1972, members of NBAA who operate small aircraft for business purposes have relied on NBAA's Small Aircraft Exemption to do just that. These include all piston aircraft, helicopter (regardless of size) and turbine aircraft operators (single-engine or under 12,500 lbs).

To take advantage of NBAA's Small Aircraft Exemption, you must be an NBAA member. nbaa.org/exemption

More NBAA resources for small operators

- Flight Operations Manual. Designed specifically to meet the needs of small operators, the Flight Operations Manual Template contains guidance on safety management systems, standard operating procedures, qualifications and training, and provides a risk assessment tool for small and single pilot operations. nbaa.org/lba-flight-ops-manual
- Insurance. Providing such programs as term life insurance and loss-of-license insurance, NBAA offers its members access to competitively priced insurance options. nbaa.org/insurance-programs
- Small Operator Symposium. This half-day event focused on small flight department management and operations allows small flight department managers to learn how to better manage the many responsibilities of operating and managing an aircraft from maintenance, to safety management including finding safe and reliable contract help. Subject matter experts lead the discussion with ample time for town-hall style Q&A and audience interaction.
- Small Operator Learning Series. Developed by the NBAA Small Flight Department Subcommittee, this series of online courses will address issues small flight department leaders face every day, while also providing newer managers with guidance in the development of their departments. Flight department leaders and industry experts will share their knowledge and experience to provide you support as a leader in your organization. nbaa.org/sols

LEGISLATIVE & REGULATORY ADVOCACY

» DID YOU KNOW?

NBAA is the leading organization advocating for the business aviation community, representing the industry before Congress, state and local governments, federal agencies, the courts and international forums to be sure your voice is heard. NBAA works diligently to protect the interests of its members, by aggressively educating government officials about the critical importance of business aviation to local communities, and by advocating for policies that recognize the central role business aviation plays in our nation's economy.

Your membership investment in NBAA backs programs that:

- Protect your access to airports and airspace
- Educate government officials about business aviation's commitment to safe and secure operations, and work with agencies to develop reasonable and effective regulations
- Combat negative media attention by educating the public and government on why business aviation is essential to our local communities and nation's economy
- Prevent new and onerous operational user fees
- Partner with the government to modernize the nation's airspace system and expand capacity
- Partner with Congress to advance policy solutions that strengthen safety across the industry, foster mobility while minimizing our environmental impact, safely integrate new entrants into the national airspace, and recruit and retain a diverse workforce of the future in order to strengthen the role of the U.S. as the world leader in aerospace

Online Advocacy Center provides the tools and resources you need to stay informed, and get directly involved in the issues that concern you most.

nbaa.org/advocacy

NBAA's Grassroots Action Center is a tool that allows members to communicate with their congressional representatives by helping them generate and send personalized letters to Congress quickly and easily online. nbaa.org/action

NBAA's Regional Directors represent five U.S. regions, leveraging the presence of business aviation in every state and city to support the industry and help articulate its views on airport policies, environmental protocols, safety and security proposals, taxation and a variety of other issues. These NBAA staff members also support and participate in more than 70 regional business aviation groups nationwide, and work to directly address member needs out in the field. nbaa.org/regional
